

Question26 on the Nature of Consciousness
LEVELS of EXPERIENCING
STATEMENT	ANSWER	LEVEL* OF TRUTH
NOTE: This paper is only discussing the creative side of Consciousness . Our journey actually begins at the deepest levels of destruction, eventually progressing into and thru the creative, and disappearing into pure unmanifest Consciousness, which is neither creative or destructive.	yes	infinity

In Question12 we saw a shift from fear so strong that it had to be avoided at any cost, even suicide	yes	41
The next shift was from fear so strong that it was paralyzing	yes	101
The next shift was to anger	yes	150
The next shift was to action for ones own body/mind	yes	191
The next shift was to action for the sake of others	yes	401
The next shift was acceptance at deeper and deeper levels	yes	701
What is learned in this material existence is as if we were climbing a circular staircase for 50 floors	yes	50,000
The most difficult floor, the one that takes a lot of experiencing, is between the basement and the 1st floor (destructive aspects of Consciousness - frequencies less than 0)	yes	0
This part of our journey home takes experiencing an average of 22,000 lives	yes	0

The journey between 0 and 501 (from 1st floor to Mezzanine) takes experiencing another 11,000 lives	yes	501
The next level of the trek, between 501 and 25,000, moves us from believing we are the center of existence, to a deeper appreciation of the majesty and mystery of materiality until we graduate into that mystery	yes	25,000
This takes experiencing an average of 1,500 lives	yes	25,000
10,001		